Petition to Open a Rulemaking Docket to Consider Amending
Wis. Admin. Code ch. PSC 119 and Wis. Admin. Code § PSC 113.10
Related to Distributed Resources Interconnection Rules

5-GF-233

NOTICE OF INVESTIGATION

Comments Due: Monday, June 17, 2013 - 12:00 noon	Address Comments To: Sandra J. Paske, Secretary to The Commission Public Service Commission P.O. Box 7854 Madison, Wisconsin 53707-7854
---	--

THIS IS AN INVESTIGATION to review the petition to open a rulemaking docket to consider amending Wis. Admin. Code ch. PSC 119 and Wis. Admin. Code § PSC 113.10, related to the distributed resources interconnection rules. The Commission opens this docket by its authority under Wis. Stat. ch. 196. The Commission intends to conduct this investigation without a hearing.

DOCUMENTS. All documents in this docket are filed on the Commission's Electronic Regulatory Filing (ERF) system. To view these documents: (1) go to the Commission's web site at <http://psc.wi.gov>, (2) enter "5-GF-233" in the box labeled "Link Directly to a Case," and (3) select "GO."

COMMENTS. The Commission requests comments from each investor-owned utility, the Municipal Electric Utilities of Wisconsin, and any other interested person, group, association or cooperative on the following issues:

1. Do you think that the Commission should open a rulemaking docket to consider amending Wis. Admin. Code ch. PSC 119 and Wis. Admin. Code § PSC 113.10, related to the distributed resources interconnection rules?
2. Which, if any, of the amendments proposed by RENEW Wisconsin in its petition (PSC REF#: 181263) do you think should be considered by the Commission?

3. How many distributed generation interconnection requests, on average, does your utility receive in a given year? Please provide a breakdown, by class (residential, commercial and industrial) and size.
4. For your utility, what is the current trend for distributed generation interconnections? Is the number of distributed generation interconnection requests growing, slowing, or flat? Please provide a breakdown, by class, for the trend data (residential, commercial and industrial).
5. Is it common practice for your utility to require external disconnect switches in relation to distribution generation facility interconnections?
6. To what extent do external disconnect switches increase facility costs for distributed generation systems?
7. Is it the position of your utility that external disconnect switches are necessary for safety?
8. For those utilities that provide service in other states, are external disconnect switches required in connection with distributed generation interconnections?
9. In practice, for your utility, how long does the current distributed generation interconnection process take? Does the current time it takes to process these requests, in practice, substantially differ from what is proposed by petitioners? What changes, if any, would improve the efficiency of the interconnection process?
10. Are there cost implications for your utility, positive or negative, associated with implementing a “fast track” interconnection process for distributed generation facilities, as proposed by petitioners? How will/should these costs be allocated?
11. In practice, how common is it for your utility to require communications link equipment associated with distributed generation interconnection that would not be considered “least-cost”?
12. How common is it for your utility for subsequent customers to connect to a line extension already paid for by a distributed generation facility? If a new customer is connected to an existing line extension previously installed for a distributed generation facility, how should costs be allocated?

Comments are due no later than Monday, June 17, 2013, at 12:00 noon. Utilities, organizations, or interest groups shall file one comment using the Commission’s ERF system.
